Dear Mr Waller,

SENSIBLE ALTERNATIVES TO HS2

In common with many fellow Members of Parliament and millions of UK citizens, I am wholly opposed to the HS2 project and have spoken and written on the subject on many occasions. I have just seen a copy of your advert and thought the enclosed paper might be of interest. Some of you may have seen it before but it is still valid I believe.

My paper has been circulated to senior government representatives and others in recent months but was written originally as a personal submission to the House of Lords inquiry, 'The Economic Case for HS'. My colleagues and I could provide more evidence of the folly of HS2 if required.

One addition I would like to make is that leaks from inside the HS2 bureaucracy suggests that the total cost of HS2 will be over £200 billion.

Yours sincerely,

Kelvin Hopkins MP
Enc.
